ALPHA MALE

Crown in Chilton. The food was delicious! Thank you Shea.

Here are some reasons given for why people attended the course:

Been on a bit of a rollercoaster; no direction.

Was suggested by a family member and thought it would be an interesting experience.

I first heard about Alpha Courses 10 years ago and have wanted to attend. This course was right time and right place for me.

Some of the topics covered through the course were: Is there more to life than this? How can I have faith? How does God guide us? Who is Jesus? What about the Church?

So what did people think about the course?

I enjoyed being taken out of day-to-day life to think about faith and other concepts which I otherwise struggle to find time for.

Enjoyed meeting new people and getting to know them. And I've got an improved understanding of what it means to be a Christian.

Good discussions, challenges, good company and food

I enjoyed thinking about things in a calm, clear way, things that are different to the usual.

If you'd like to attend our next Alpha course, being run in Harwell from the 14th April, please contact Vicky on 834256 to book your place.

An Informed Decision

Chocolate brownie or sticky toffee pudding? Say 'I will' or 'No thanks'? Cash in your pension pot or leave it untouched? Life is full of decisions, and every day is a succession of options and choices, some relatively insignificant, others potentially life-changing. But we can only make a good decision when we have the facts.

We would never agree to major surgery without good reason – a diagnosis, an explanation of what is involved, and any associated risks. For important decisions, it is essential that we make a choice that is informed.

So how are you going to vote in the EU Referendum? Should we stay or should we go? Do you feel you know enough about the pros and cons to decide? This is an important decision, arguably more so even than a General Election. Fully informed or not, every British adult will get to express their choice on 23rd June, and a momentous decision will be made.

There is another once-in-a-lifetime issue, potentially far more important, that we each need to decide about. What I am thinking about has significance not just for decades or even centuries, but for eternity. Jesus put the issue before his disciples 2000 years ago: "Who do you say that I am?" And this is something that we each need to decide for ourselves. The Christian faith claims that everything hangs on our personal response to that leading question. But how do we make an informed choice?

For a start we should look at what the Bible says; it contains eye-witness accounts of the life, death and – alleged – resurrection of Jesus, and of those who first believed that Jesus rose from the dead. St Luke is concerned that his readers consider the evidence and make an informed decision about Jesus. Right at the beginning of his contribution to the Bible he says,

"Since I myself have carefully investigated everything from the beginning, I... decided to write an orderly account for you, most excellent Theophilus, so that you may know the certainty of the things you have been taught." (Luke 1:3-4)

The Bible must be our starting point. But alongside the Bible we should look at the evidence of history. We should also look at whether the Christian claims hang together and fit with what we know of the world, or whether other religions or worldviews make more sense. We should look critically at the difference that genuine adherence to the Christian faith makes in societies and in individuals. Does prayer make a difference? Does God heal today? Without investigating these sorts of things, we cannot make an informed decision.

The Alpha Course provides an opportunity to explore these crucial questions in a friendly, interactive setting. Alpha has been run in 169 countries and attended by over 22 million people who have wanted to make an informed decision about matters of eternal significance. We will be hosting Alpha at the Harwell Village Club (RBL) in April and May. For help with making an informed decision about an issue far more important even than the EU Referendum, why not commit over seven Thursday evenings to just 12 hours of stimulating conversation, good company and delicious food? (All for free). You may even get a choice of desserts!

INTERVIEW WITH SARAH BARRETT

What prompted your move to Chilton?

We moved to Chilton in December 2013. We got a really good feel for the village when we were looking around this area. We didn't move far but wanted to be a bit further south and have an easier drive for Tom to get to work. We also hoped that being in a village and with the new development we would meet other families, as at the time we had one year old Henry. It just felt like the right place to move to really.

What prompted you to do an

Alpha Course? I had been thinking about doing an Alpha course on and off for a few years but just never really got around to it. I was brought up in a non religious family and had only started attending church when I met Tom so didn't even really feel like I understood even the basics, although I had always felt that there was more to life and would have probably described myself as a Christian.

A few years ago Tom and I had a really difficult time and ended up having to stay in the John Radcliffe hospital for a while. I spent some time in the chapel there where I found such peace and comfort which really surprised me. Prayer started to come very naturally which it never had before and I suppose that was where I started to think I needed to learn more. We moved to Chilton a year or so later. We went to church in Chilton and met some really lovely people and it felt like the right time to just find out more about Christianity.

Jonathan Mobey told me about an Alpha Course that the church was running and it was brilliant. The group of people there were really supportive and understanding and so knowledgeable, but not at all intimidating which was so important. It made it so accessible and I never felt stupid even asking some really basic questions. At the same time as doing the Alpha course I also attended a bible study session held after the Fledgelings group where again I learned so much. The Alpha Course and the bible study group made Christianity relevant to how I want to live my life and not just something that happened 2000 years ago. I am very grateful for both of these groups of people.

What prompted you to be baptised

earlier this year? Having talked to Tom, friends and Jonathan, I took the decision to be baptised. I wanted to make a commitment to my faith as a Christian. I wanted to be baptised at All Saints' as the congregation has been so warm and welcoming and helpful and I wanted to commit myself in front of those people who had helped me so much. Helen and Esther agreed to be my sponsors and it felt so lovely to have them standing with me as I said the words. It was a really joyful and emotional service.

Why do an Alpha Course? I would say to anyone who wants to learn more about Christianity to try the Alpha Course. It gives such a good grounding in a really clear way and you'll meet a wonderful group of people at all different stages in their faith who can help. If you have questions, try and get them answered and not just keep wondering about it or putting it off. I'd also say to try church! You'll meet a lovely group of people who will really welcome you. All Saints' Church and Chilton are very special places.
